FRANK E. LANGLEY, Publisher

Premier Asquith uses Cork as a stopper for the Irish rebellion.

Maine has become acquainted with water again during the past few days.

The stories of "naval engagements" in the North sea haven't the right ring to them.

Barre's new auto truck is coming in on low gear. No doubt that explains the delay in arrival.

The battle between the sun and the clouds has continued for nearly a week, and the issue of the conflict is not yet fully decided.

The trout bit well for Fred Murphy of Ripton, but the law bit even better when Mr. Murphy was fined $175 and costs for having 35 short fish in his possession. This is a fish law with teeth.

At the present rate of increase the deposits in Vermont savings banks will have passed the $100,000,000 mark when the report for the next six months is printed. They are very near that mark at the present time.

If Henry Ford really becomes a candidate for president, will all the Ford agents in the country become his political lieutenants? If they should turn their efforts in his support, Ford will have a far-reaching political machine.

Again the United States navy sends up to little old inland Vermont for a fleet commander—Henry T. Mayo. The list of Vermont men grown famous in the naval history of the country grows with the addition of Mayo's name to those of Dewey, Clark, Converse.

Austria is reported to have 300,000 men on the Italian front. If that is the case Austria's armies in other localities must have been weakened to such an extent that their enemies would find it an opportune time to attack. Austria is not over-burdened with men at the present stage of the conflict, although the nation has not been suffering severe casualties for several months.

Levi Parsons Morton is a man who has grown away from his native state of Vermont during the latter part of his 92 years, but he cannot get rid of some of the good old virtues which he acquired through his Vermont parentage. Vermont would like to see more of this venerable son who has gained so much distinction in the official and financial world; but if that pleasure is to be denied, Vermont is glad to extend its heartiest congratulations and to hope for Mr. Morton many more years of happy existence amid pleasant surroundings. He is a man of whom Vermont is proud.

Clean-Up Notice.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Ready-to-hang curtains at Abbott's. Soiled jersey corset covers 10c. Knight's. Sanitary methods and prompt service are the watchwords at Ross' Depot square barber shop.

WILLIAMSTOWN

Methodist church—Divine worship next Lord's day at the usual hour. The theme for the morning service, "The Needy Sinner and the Earnest Church." Union service in the evening at 7:30. We will be glad to see you at any of these services. The pastor will appreciate being informed of any sick people who might care to have him visit them.

Rev. Alven M. Smith was called to Washington the 17th to officiate at the funeral of Mrs. W. E. Worthley, a former parishioner.

There is to be a special meeting of the O. E. S., No. 57 on Monday evening, May 22.

Richard S. Jeffords and Mrs. William E. Randall went to Burlington the 18th as delegates from the local lodges of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs respectively, to the grand lodges of the state in session in that city.

Word is received here from Ray George, who recently went to Hanover, N. H., to work in an eating house, that the building in which he works is to be torn down in a few weeks to make room for a large business block to be built on the site.

The cold backward spring of 1916 recalls the historical fact that one hundred years ago there was no seasonable weather in this latitude and that nearly all crops were a failure. There was ice and snow in all the summer months and only in the southern states was there any crops of any amount! The year 1816 was long remembered as the year in which there was no summer and seed saved in 1815 was used for planting in 1817.

Fred A. Blanchard, who has been at work in East Montpelier for some three months past, has returned to town and will work for Jerry M. Hutchinson this summer.

Jesse Aulin did not make a long stay in town this time and is now in Concord, N. H., where he will be employed as stonecutter.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank most sincerely our many friends who so kindly helped us to celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary, also for the many beautiful gifts which they brought us.

Goddard vs. I. A. C. at Berlin street Saturday, May 20. The Italians will try to defeat the team that won three of its four Massachusetts and New Hampshire games.

On account of the illness of my daughter, I am having a closing out sale of all the spring stock. Everything, trimmed or untrimmed, sold at a sacrifice. Mrs. S. E. Laviolette.

It is strange why so many people suffer with their feet when they can have them absolutely cured at Miss Roben's Chiropody Parlors in the Averill block. Call 444-13 and I will tell you.—adv.

Posters are out announcing a minstrel show to be given at Goddard chapel Tuesday, May 23. The proceeds of the entertainment are to be used to help pay the expenses of sending the track team to Burlington to compete in the state interscholastic meet. Among those who have a part in the performance are William Quinn, Myron Rogers, Arthur Hoernle, George Faulkner and Harry Soule. Frondini, a celebrated prestidigitator, is also advertised as one of the chief attractions.

The quiting season in Barre is to have an auspicious opening on the grounds of the Granite City Quilting club in the south end Saturday, when two strong teams are matched to play at 2 o'clock.

Perhaps the week-end contest is the beginning of what will develop into a hot race for city honors, as much enthusiasm has been shown in the attempt to revive interest in the game on a large scale. Proceeds of Saturday's competition are to be given to a member of the club in ill health. In the evening there is to be a social time for club members in the club pavilion. The following players are to take part in the competition: W. Main, A. Rennie, J. Gauld and J. Milne, against C. Greig, G. Slora, G. Thomson and J. Laird.
